Public Meeting in Fauquier.

In pursuance of a previous notice for a general meeting of the citizens of Fauquier, a large gathering assembled in the basement of the Court House, on Manday, the 28th instant, and on motion. Jus-V. Brooke, esq., was called to the Chair, and Messrs. C. McL. Johnston and J. E. Seruggs were appointed Secretaries.

Mr. Brooke stated the object of the meeting to se to give some expression of opinion upon the existing condition of the country, and the measures called for to meet emergencies. The meeting being organized, Ex Governor Smith delivered an able and appropriate address in support of the preamble and resolutions, which he held in his hand, and was about to offer to the consideration of the meeting-which preamble and resolutions were then read, and are in these words Whereas, a portion of the people of Fanquier County, Virginia, now assembled, have met to deliberate and to confer with each other as to the course to be pursued in the present adarming condition of the country: Entitled by the compacts of the Constitution and the county uni-versally recognized in the family of initions, to complete examples from all interferors in our damestic exerciment exemption from all interference in our domestic govern and institutions, we have observed with grief and inc tion the steady growth of a fanatical semiment in the slaveholding States immical to the repose and prosperity of the slaveholding States—and boldly nim to interfere with the slaveholding States—and holdly nim to interfere with and change their domestic institutions—and which neces-sarily involves the integrity of our Federal Union. For nearly half a century one half of the States of the Union have been the object of malignant and slanderous assault; their people have been aspersed, their characters defamed, and a bold and persistent effort made to weaken and destroy one of their most important domestic institutions, involving the fate of a property worth over two thousand millions of dollars. These diabolical efforts have assumed every form and occuried every forms. They first afterneted to revent dollars. These dialsolical efforts have assumed every form and occupied every forum. They first attempted to prevent the acquisition of Louisiana Territory, because it would add to the strength of what they were pleased to denominate the slave power. Failing in this, (fortunately for our country.) they next attempted, and unhappily succeeded, in changing, by what is known as the Missouri Compromise, the civil condition of more than one half of the territory acquired, and excluded therefrom the slaveholding population of the Union, in terms, forever. That great constitutional forum, the Congress of the United States—provided by the Constitution in which to discuss the granted powers thereof, to provide the laws necessary to perform the duties, enforce the obligations and maintain the rights enjonied by bligations and maintain the our federal compact-has been perverted from its our federal compact—has been perverted from its origina purpose, to mosettle our institutions and to bring the Unio-tiself into contempt. The pulpit, dedicated to the oul-true and fiving God, and the ministers of the meek an lowly Jesus, "who died that all might live," have furnishe-the place and the men to urge on measures of strie an-blood. From such teachings we see bands of organize-men engaged in stealing our slaves, resisting the act or Congress providing for their reclamation, firing our farm houses and stack-yards; and finally, a forny by John Brow-work by confederate service great the skerning town of that

A candidate for Presidential monte preclaims the a struggle between free and slave later exists that it is the "irrepressible conflict." that the States mass be all slaves all free. It is seen, also, that a book, said to be written by North Carolinian, has been extensively circulated. The book is most diabolical in its character and objects, speaks of "the stupid masses of the South; of the sum of villamies; of the duty of the North to seize the riches of it South; that the North is tos compulsors, that there will villamies of the duty of the North to serze the riches of a South, that the North is two scrupulous, that there will revolution peacefully if we may forcibly if we must a that they will have abolition or revolution in 1860." The atrocious doctrines, purposes and sentiments would exculy feelings of scorn and contempt but for those by whe they have been endorsed. But it seems that on the 4th Murch, 1859, a private circular was issued, to which appended the names of the tioverfue of New York, of Chairman of the New York Republican State Committee.

This during attempt, so difficult of beinet, and obviously founded in ignorance of the sentiment of our races, it was to have been expected would have excited a feeling of universal execution. Not so, however. In the non-slaveholding States, every expression of popular opinion, so far, has been one of symposity for the wretched band of desperate marguders. Nay, it is boldly proclaimed that they shall be rescued from their impending doom. No public meeting has been convened (except in the city of New York) in the non-slaveholding States to pour forth their indignant feelings at the invasion of our soil, the murder of our people, the burning of our dwellings, and the hellish effort to get up an insurrection with (were it successful) all its harrowing consequences. COMMUNICATED. Greenwood Church, in the County of Prince William, Va., was solemnly set apart to sacred purposes on Sabbath day, the 13th instant, in the presence of a crowded assembly. The discourse was delivered by the Rev. Thomas B. Balch, from the first verse of the one hundred and twenty-second Psalm: "I was glad when they said unto me, shall stand within thy gates, O Jerusalem. This church is about equi-distant from the towns of Occoquan and Dumfries. Its dimensions are thirty-four by twenty-four feet, and it is supposed it will seat about two hundred and fifty people. The whole edifice reflects credit on the various persons engaged in building it. The furniture of the both provided for and arranged, for the most part, by the ladies of the congregation. The history of this infant enterprise is interesting. A few families had emigrated from the North to that part of Prince William .shey commenced preaching among them ployment of the Presbyterian Board of Missions. Many of the people there are generous contributors for thier means, and some gave beyond their means. This was noble. After such self denial, are there not some debt of one hundred and fifty-two dollars? The congregation of Dr. Harrison, of Alexandria, have already aided the enterprise .-I will merely add, this beautiful little edifice, of which I have spoken, is an honor to the the Missionary who has labored in a destitute locality with Moravian simplicity. A SPECTATOR.

[COMMUNICATED. I notice the proceedings of a public meeting in a neighboring county, where it was resolved to petition the Legislature to pass a law prohibiting, under a heavy penalty, J. R. Birch. the selling of goods manufactured in a free State. Would it not be quite as sensible and appropriate, if they would change their programme, and petition that they may be saved from running into extremes, and recommending most impracticable measures. This is not a time for wild and chimerical projects.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH.-A correspondent seems to be somewhat indignant, that the local authorities at Washington should arrest a man for openly speaking in favor of John Brown's purposes, and asks "if the freedom of speech is not guaranteed by the constitution." The constitution says Congress should make no law abridging the freedom of speech, but it did not mean that he should use this freedom to the destruction of the government or of the country, no more than his freedom of action means that he should steal or commit murder. There are certain acts which are called crimes in society, and however free a man may be to act as he piesaes, it he pieases to do any of these foroilden acts, he will soon find himself in trouble. So it is with his speech.
